

Sodality Union Dance Tickets Now On Sale

Tickets for the annual Sodality Union dance went on sale Monday. The dance, which will be held in the Evergreen Gymnasium on Saturday evening, January 31, is sponsored by the combined Sodalities of Notre Dame, Mt. St. Agnes and Loyola Colleges and the Newman Clubs of Goucher College and the Johns Hopkins University.

Carl Rehling and his orchestra will provide the music for the affair. Dress is to be semi-formal. A program has been designed for the dance and patrons are being solicited.

The Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., professor of Ethics at Loyola is moderator of the dance and Edward G. Hart, Jr., of the January class is general chairman. Each individual member sodality has a dance committee to handle publicity and arrangements in the different colleges.

The committee for Loyola College includes Thomas Daniels, Louis Roche, Frank Kunkel and Thomas Ostendorf.

Tickets are priced at $2.50. The profits from the dance will be applied to defray the cost of the annual Christmas party at St. Elizabeth's Orphanage.

NSA Approves IUS Delegates

The appointment of United States representatives to the International Union of Students meeting in Europe this year was the main business discussed at the last regional meeting of the National Student Association. The meeting was held at the University of Baltimore on December 20.

Delegates from the Johns Hopkins University and Howard College opposed the disqualification of candidates to the international organization merely on the basis of their alleged connections with leftist organizations. The majority of delegates attending the meeting favored such disqualification.

In accordance with the will of the majority, the chairman then mentioned all known or alleged leftist connections of the candidates and they were voted upon individually.

The NSA is at present awaiting word from national headquarters in Madison, Wisconsin regarding the question of whether a ratification of the NSA Constitution implied an approval of the Bill of Rights. Several provisions of the Bill of Rights were called objectionable by the Loyola representatives at a previous meeting of the NSA.

Opinions On UMT Sought

The opinion of Loyola students on the controversial question of Universal Training program will be asked in a GREYHOUND poll this week. The purpose of the poll is to provide the local region of the National Student Association with the views of students in member colleges. The polls will be distributed in the Cafeteria during lunch period next week.

Eight Named TKA Members

Loyola will become the first Catholic College in the nation to enroll a chapter into the national forensic fraternity, Tau Kappa Alpha. The Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J., Dean of Loyola, announced that eight students have been nominated for membership.

They are Terrence E. Burke, John C. Evelius, Francis X. Gallagher, Winston T. Kourey, J. Allan Panuska, Edward F. Shea and Dudley M. Shoemaker.

List Qualifications

Membership qualifications require that a student participate in forensic activity and be in the upper third of his class with regard to scholastic standing.

The new chapter will be formally enrolled in the fraternity at a special banquet which will be held at the end of January. Mr. James A. Perrott is the Faculty Sponsor of the new chapter. It was pointed out by the Dean that membership in the Fraternity is a decided asset for those who plan to enter the legal field.

150 Chapters

Tau Kappa Alpha has chapters on more than 150 college campuses and lists a total membership of almost seven thousand. The national office of the organization is located at Denison University in Granville, Ohio.

Although the fraternity is a large one, no chapters have been located on Catholic College campuses before this time. The new members will receive a lifetime membership in the organization, a fraternity pin and a two year subscription to The Speaker, the fraternity's official publication.

Davidson Succeeds Burke In Top Greyhound Office

Spencer L. Davidson became the twenty-fifth Editor-in-Chief of THE GREYHOUND at the annual Staff banquet held last night at the Northway Apartments.

Davidson, formerly Sports Editor of the biweekly student publication, replaces Terrence Burke, who is graduating February 1.

Upwards of fifty staff members attended the banquet, witnessing between forkfuls of baked Virginia ham the addresses of retiring and succeeding editorial staff members, the awarding of Greyhound pins to graduating members, and an address by guest speaker William Tilman, of the News-Post.

Francis X. Gallagher and Don Fay were appointed to the other two top staff offices. Gallagher succeeds John H. Plunkett in the office of Managing Editor, and Fay takes over Davidson's position as Sports Editor.

Greyhound pins for faithful service to the student publication were awarded to graduating members James O'Neill, Edward Hart, John Plunkett and Terrence Burke.

Seventeen members of the Senior Class will receive diplomas at a Baccalaureate Mass to be celebrated in the Students Chapel on Sunday, February 1. The Mass will be followed by a Breakfast for the graduates and their guests in the Oak Room of the Library Building.

The majority of the students concluding studies this month are veterans who originally entered Loyola in classes scheduled to graduate as early as 1941.

Rector To Confer Degrees

The Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S. J., President of Loyola College will present the diplomas. Father Talbot will also speak at the Communion Breakfast.

Each student in the graduating class will receive five tickets to the Mass and Breakfast for their parents and guests. The Mass is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

Entered Loyola In 1945

The class, of which but three of the 25 original members remained from matriculation to graduation, entered Loyola on January 31, 1945.

Largely because of its size, the class will hold no senior ball but will combine with the other sections of the senior class to hold the traditional dance in May.

Class Listed

Members of the January Class are: Edward C. Barrett, B. S. II., George F. Buchness, B. S. I., Terrence E. Burke, A. B., Robert G. Evans, B. S. I., Robert Gamson, B. S. I., Edward G. Hart, B. S. I., J. Leonard Johnson, Ph. B., Edward J. Karwacki, B. S. I., Charles Krause, B. S. I., Frank Kunkel, Ph. B., William Linz, Ph. B., Thomas E. Middleton, B. S. II., Bernard M. Morenz, B. S. I., Francis C. Nagle, Ph. B., William Peroutka, B. S. II., John H. Plunkett, A. B., and James V. Shimck, B. S. I.

The Catholic members of the class made their Senior Retreat at Manresa on the Severn from December 5 to 7, 1947 with the Alumni Association retreatants.

Exams Slated For Next Week

Mid-term examinations have been scheduled for January 19 to 23 by the office of the Dean of Studies. Complete schedules listing courses, times and rooms of exams are posted on the Dean's bulletin board in the Library Building.

Students were instructed to report any conflict in schedules to the Registrar, Miss Catherine MacDonald, before the end of this week.

In a special bulletin, the Dean urged all students to continue to consult the schedules for any last minute changes, in order to prevent any confusion. Report cards for the quarter ending today and the examinations will be mailed out beginning Tuesday, January 27. Failures in the examinations will be posted on the bulletin board but no marks will be given out by the Dean's Office until all report cards have been mailed out.

Television Disrupts Public Phone Service

Public telephones in the Oak Room of the Library Building, the smoker of the Science Building and the Gymnasium are disconnected immediately preceding the use of television cameras on campus. Basketball games played in the Gymnasium provide many of these occasions. Service is not resumed until at least the day after the game.

Freshmen Hold Nominations

The Freshman class will hold a class meeting today at 10:30 in the gymnasium for the purpose of nominating candidates for class officers. The actual elections will be conducted as soon as possible after examinations.

During the past months the class business has been carried on by a temporary Executive Board which was elected last September. The board, composed of four vets and three non-vets, is as follows: Edward O. Clarke, A. B., William Dempsey, BSII, Lawrence Flynn, PhB, Milton Harris, BSII, Walter Smyth, BSI, Frank Vogel, BSI, Charles Wittstadt, BSI.

The nominations were made by a secret ballot, and the coming elections will be conducted in the same manner. The officers elected now will continue in their respective offices until this time next year. Dudley Shoemaker, president of the Student Council, expressed the hope that all Freshmen would take a genuine interest in the election since the duties of the officers will take on increasing importance as the class nears its Sophomore year.

First Freshman-less January Since 1942

For the first time since 1942 no new class will matriculate at Loyola this month. The first such winter freshman class started at Evergreen under the accelerated program just five years ago.

The original purpose of the mid-term freshman class was to allow high school seniors graduating in January and February to receive at least a term of college training before induction into the armed forces.

No new class could be received this year because of the lack of facilities for additional students.

Spencer L. Davidson

nounced are as follows: Edward Clarke succeeds Gallagher as News Editor; Mickey Parr becomes Assistant Sports Editor succeeding Don Fay; James Dietz was appointed to the revived office of Rewrite Editor.

The other masthead editorial positions remain as they have for the past term. THE GREYHOUND will continue biweekly publication throughout the school year, the next issue to appear on January 30.

Over 90% ASN Alumni Pursue Graduate Work

Over 90% of the members of the Alpha Sigma Nu Alumni Club are presently engaged in graduate studies, a recent survey disclosed. The Club, which was formed in September, 1946, to bring together graduates of Loyola who were elected to the ASN National Jesuit Honor Fraternity, had found increased difficulty in producing a two-thirds voting quorum at its regular business meetings. Graduate homework was discovered to be the villain.

Some Study Out Of Town

For some, attendance at all meetings was simply impossible: they were out of town. George McManus and Casimir Zacharski, for instance, are working for their Law degrees at Harvard University. Dr. Anthony Stedman is engaged at the Veterans Hospital at Perry Point, Md.

Formal induction of three approved candidates is pending, with Noah Walker studying Law at Columbia University, Bernard Saltsiak taking Optometry also at Columbia and William Cahill pursuing Law at Georgetown University. Joseph Epesman is also studying Law at Georgetown, E. Paul Coffay, Jr., is a second year Medical student at Georgetown.

Others Pursue Accounting

Would-be accountants are Charles Hemelt and Michael Sullivan. Daniel Bathon and George Miller, Jr., have already passed their C. P. A. exams.

Miller and Robert Bachman hold Bachelor of Engineering degrees from the Johns Hopkins University and Francis Mueller received his M. A. in Mathematics from the same institution last June.

Barkley Fritz is at present pursuing Mathematics at Hopkins and Charles Lerch is working for his doctorate in Physics.

Dodd Carr, William Meyer, Jr., and Joseph Gessler are seeking doctorates in Chemical Engineering at Hopkins.

Many Are Law Students

At the University of Maryland, Carl Gottschalk has received his Bachelor of Laws and passed the bar examination. Others pursuing the same goal are: John Farrell, Mannes Greenberg, Robert Hiltz, Richard Lerch, William Rogers, Jr., Albert Sehlstedt and Edwin Steffy.

Robert Martin is studying for his M. A. in English at the University of Maryland.

ASN Awaits Dean On Nomination List

Investiture of the newly appointed members of Alpha Sigma Nu, National Jesuit Honor Fraternity, will take place on Sunday, January 25. Although the list has not been made public, it has been sent to the Dean for approval.

Dudley M. Shoemaker, Terrence E. Burke and George Buchness, the present members of ASN, drew up the nomination list.

Students are selected according to their scholastic standing, loyalty and service to the school.

Night School To Hear Artist

Mario Bacchelli, distinguished Italian painter and etcher will address the students of the Evening School next Tuesday, January 20, in the Library at Evergreen. The topic of his lecture will be "The Art Of Print Making In The History Of Human Thought."

Mr. Bacchelli comes to this country from Italy, where he taught figure drawing and painting at the Florentine Academy. He will give a short history of print making and a critical analysis of the outstanding masters.

An exhibit of Mr. Bacchelli's paintings will be held at the Maryland Institute from January 18 to January 31.

His knowledge of the subject goes far beyond what the layman can learn in books because it involves the knowledge of how each process fulfilled a particular need of the time.

'43 Grad Wins Law School Test

Paul R. Connolly, a member of the Loyola College graduating Class of October, 1943, won the semi-annual public law argument contest at the Georgetown School of Law, Washington, D. C. In winning this contest, Connolly became the first student in school history to win the contest twice in a row, having won the last contest also.

The debate considered the question of proper representation by counsel and obtaining money under false pretenses. Connolly was selected to participate in the contest by winning various elimination tests.

While at Loyola, he was active in Debating and Alpha Sigma Nu. He served in the Navy during the war, having entered the V-7 program.

Comber, Ravenal Participate In N.Y. Tournament

"Ouch! what competition!" exclaimed Tom Comber and Dick Ravenal, Loyola's representatives in the recent National Inter-Collegiate Chess Tournament. The tournament, sponsored by the U. S. Chess Federation, was held at Columbia University from Dec. 26th through the 30th. Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Princeton, Pennsylvania, N. Y. U., Columbia and C. C. N. Y. were among the prominent colleges represented by the fifty participants.

Robert Byrne of Yale, pre-tournament favorite and already considered one of the American Chess Masters, lived up to his reputation by winning the championship. However his victory was not made certain until the final round in which he defeated Chester Fell of Williams College.

Comber Wins Pair

Tom Comber, president of the Loyola Chess Club won two and lost five in the seven rounds which were played according to the Swiss style. He defeated George Wisoff of Union College, New York, in fifty moves, and Tuttle of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in a game which required thirty-four moves.

Dick Ravenal, Loyola's other representative and freshman sensation on this year's team, fared slightly better in the tournament. He defeated Shulman of Princeton in twenty-four moves and won over Levitt of Penn by forfeit. He obtained a draw with Tuttle of R. P. I. in a match of fifty-five moves.

Defeat By Montebello

On Dec. 23, the Chess Team was defeated by the Montebello Chess Club. The score was 5-0. Several of the games were very close but no one could get a win.

The Loyola Chess Team defeated Georgetown University by a score of 2½-1½. The match was played at the Maryland Chess Club on Jan. 9. It was the first defeat Georgetown has suffered since its chess team was organized last year. Dick Ravenal and Ed Rowles won for Loyola and Bob Bordley obtained a draw. Loyola's lone loss was suffered by Tom Comber.

Debaters Prepare For Coming Season

Members of the Robert Bellarmine Society have been devoting their Saturdays to preparation for the coming inter-collegiate debates. For the past three weeks the debaters have been outlining their arguments.

Every three hours, four members entered into a forum discussion on the national topic "Resolved That A Federal World Government Should Be Established." Points are outlined and recorded. A complete manuscript containing an index of arguments on the topic is being drawn up for use during the year.

An electric time indicator for use during debates has been presented to the society by a friend of the school, it was announced recently by Mr. William-M. J. Driscoll, S. J., the moderator of the Society.

Orchestra, Band Organize; Ad Drive For Evergreen Continues

Orchestra:

An organizational meeting for a Loyola College orchestra was held last week in room 1D. Although response was not as great as was hoped, Mr. Felice Iula, director of Music at Evergreen, stated that those who have already signified their interest will form the nucleus of a 25-piece concert orchestra and a 16-piece popular band which he hopes to recruit between now and the beginning of next term.

Applicants for positions in the two groups are still being accepted by Mr. Iula's office in the Dell Building. Regular rehearsals of the orchestra will begin after the mid-term examinations.

The Street Hasn't Moved But The College Has!

(Mr. Sh-h-h will be officially revealed in the next issue of THE GREYHOUND, along with the author of the perplexing poem. Twenty-five issues of this GREYHOUND have been "stuffed" with contest entry blanks. Students finding these blanks in their issues should return them to the GREYHOUND office as soon as possible. If more than one person correctly identifies our subject, the prize will be awarded to the contestant who best explains the clues. Look for the next issue of THE GREYHOUND and see who Mr. Sh-h-h is.)

This is the second time that the students of Loyola College have a chance to guess the name of Mr. Sh-h-h of Loyola. In the last issue a poem was printed and a challenge put forth to see if you could identify our man.

Twenty-five students were selected and were asked who Mr. Sh-h-h is. No one answered the problem correctly, so, we are going into the second round by giving you additional clues based on the ones already printed.

Mr. Sh-h-h is a figure well known at Loyola. He may be a student or a member of the faculty. He may even be you, for Mr. Sh-h-h does not know that we are using him as the subject of our contest. Read the poem again carefully, and apply the clues. They should lead you directly to Mr. Sh-h-h.

Does this help to identify him? Probably not. He's calling to see if you know Mr. Sh-h-h.

Now I am close to the college
Once I was two blocks away.
I often walk the campus
The best schools end in A.

Compare 10 and 40
And you'll know where to go.
Almonds and baptism proclaim my fame

Isn't it easy now? It is if you know how to match the clues. Just sit down and think it over. If you have some trouble, you might think of a street that is close to the college but was two blocks away at one time. No the street hasn't moved, but the college has! If you figure this out, you have the first name.

Twenty-five people will receive contest entry blanks in the issues distributed this morning in the Cafeteria.

If one of these people is successful in his guess, and gives sufficient indication that he did not just guess the name but actually used the clues, he will be awarded a prize of five cartons of Chesterfield cigarettes. In addition to this prize, there will be a special prize awarded this time to the winner who satisfactorily explains the meaning of every clue in the poem. So read well. You may be selected this time, so be ready to collect the prize.

Sick Professor Sees Carolina Game On Video

The New Year's Eve of a very sick professor of Loyola College was made considerably brighter due to the generosity of the Television Company of Maryland.

It was late in the afternoon of December 31, when an inquiry was made of Mr. Stevens, business manager of the company, if a television receiver could be rented for just one occasion.

Not In Their Line

Sorry, he replied, it was utterly out of their line to do such things. But he changed instantly, when he learned, that the cabinet was wanted for a sick priest in Mercy Hospital, who would enjoy watching the Loyola-North Carolina basketball game that night, which was to be televised.

"I'll be very glad though," he rejoined promptly, "to do it as a favor."

All of the force in the office at the time, some six or eight, went into high gear at once. A new Crosley cabinet was loaded into the company's truck, a whole new spool of extension wire was thrown aboard, and a boss and two younger assistants took off in high good humor for the hospital and the sick room of the Rev. Louis McKay, S. J.

Done In Warrior Spirit

In about two hours the job of installing the receiver was finished: done, remarked Fr. McKay later, in that happy warrior's spirit that reminded him of Regulus, tendens Venafranos in agros.

Later, around 7:30 p.m., another of the company's men came down and adjusted the machine; and at 8:30 the game was on—right there in Fr. McKay's room.

According to latest reports, Fr. McKay is resting comfortably. Former professor of Latin at Evergreen, he has been confined at Mercy since early November.

Our Own Oscars

Every March the Academy of Arts and Sciences band together around a table and debate over what actor and actress will receive their awards for the past year. Since they cannot take into consideration the foreign pictures, actors and actresses, the movie columnist who picks his own, has a special advantage. So, without further ado, we go onward:

The ten best pictures of the year, in no particular order, are: Crossfire, Odd Man Out, Great Expectations, Cynthia, To Live In Peace, Life With Father, Shoe Shine, Arch of Triumph, Boomerang and Gentleman's Agreement. Since four of these are foreign-made, to supplement them, I nominate: Miracle on 34th Street, The Fugitive, The Lost Moment and Mourning Becomes Electra.

The Oscars, themselves, should go to: Henry Fonda (Fugitive), but Gregory Peck will probably get it for Gentleman's Agreement; Ingrid Bergman (Arch of Triumph) as best actress of the year; Agnes Moorehead—best supporting actress in Lost Moment; Lee Cobb and John Garfield as best supporting actors in Captain From Castile and Gentleman's Agreement respectively; Elizabeth Taylor in Cynthia as best child actress, though Margaret O'Brien deserves merit for Unfinished Dance.

Top Comedian of the year is Billy de Wolfe for Perils of Pauline. Best director, John Ford (The Fugitive) and Bob Montgomery (Ride The Pink Horse); top producer—Darryl Zanuck (Gentleman's Agreement).

Direction this year was poor; acting, very bad; and over-all production, mediocre. For the really best actors of the year turn to the two young boys in Shoe Shine. In short, turn to foreign films, anyway.

Worse show of the year: Forever Amber with paramonumental Unconquered a poor second.

And although William Powell won the New York Critic's Award for Life With Father, the bad break of starring in The Senator Was Indiscreet which was a good comedy but a poor idea, will leave the Academy cold.

Entertainment Calendar

MOVIES

Sleep My Love, one of the year's top mysteries, follows Pirates of Monterey at the CENTURY. Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche are the stars.

The Senator Was Indiscreet, a comedy liable to be nominated for the Academy Award, follows Road To Rio at KEITHS. Bill Powell is the star.

Children of Paradise, a French drama of theatres, comes to the LITTLE after I Know Where I'm Going.

Gentleman's Agreement, the well-ballyhooed slap at anti-Semitism with Gregory Peck, John Garfield and Dorothy Maguire comes to the NEW screen.

The Roosevelt Story, the picture of the year for Democrats, comes to the TOWN. Franklin D. plays himself, which was more than they let Jolson do.

Doctor Social, a new play by a new playwright, opens the 22 of

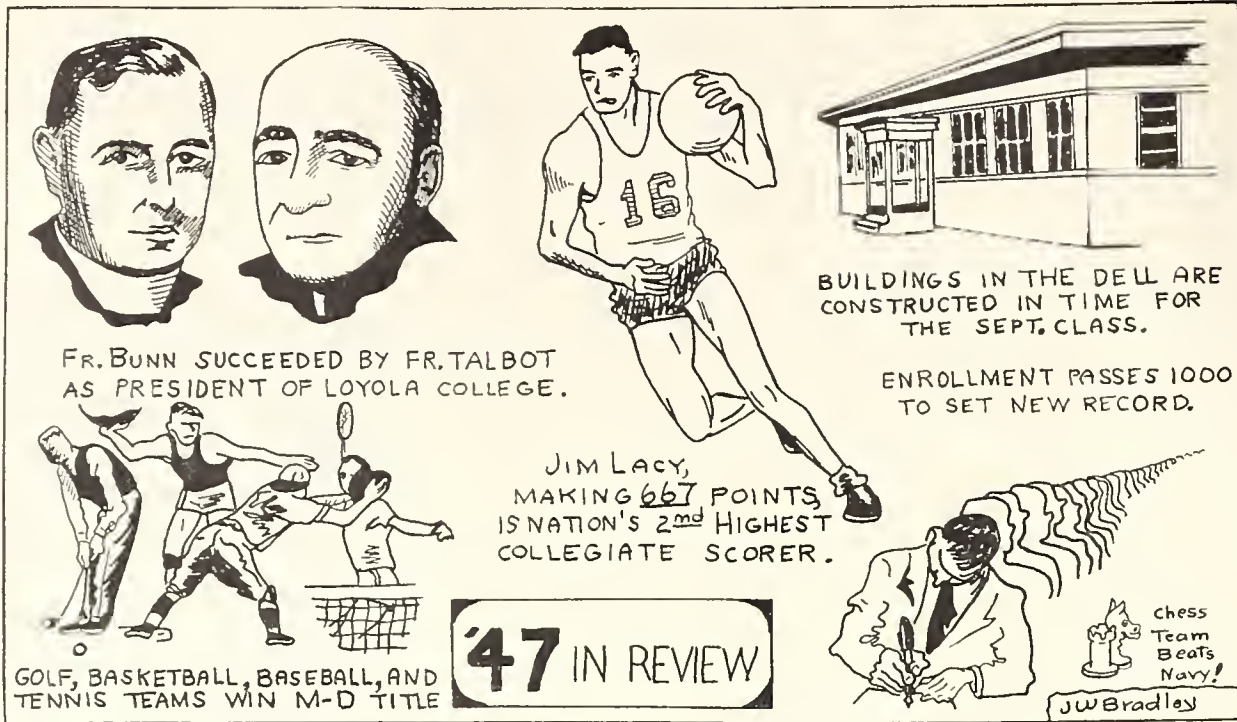

Textbook Tax

Last issue's front page editorial on the textbook sales tax campaign received rather encouraging treatment from the local press. The Sun noted the campaign, Louis Azrael mentioned it in his News-Post column, and the Evening Sun went so far as to consult the opinion of the State Comptroller (finding it negative, incidentally).

The stand of THE GREYHOUND remains at this: we believe that textbooks should be exempt from the state sales tax because 1.) educational facilities and institutions should receive a minimum of taxing, and 2.) an injustice certainly exists when public school students receive their books free of charge while private school students not only pay for their texts but are required to pay a state tax on them as well.

The question comes down to one of principle. The fact that the expenditure per student on textbooks is small has nothing to do with it. Neither is the comment of Mr. Walter Kennedy, chief of the sales tax division of the comptroller's office, a propos or valid: that students who do not want to buy their textbooks and pay tax on them are free to attend public school instead.

Are we to infer from this that Mr. Kennedy admits that an injustice exists and that it's just too bad? Probably not. It has never been a policy in this country that educational institutions, because of their unique and peculiar nature, should receive special consideration in the matter of taxes. When, in addition to this, a surplus of revenue has occurred from the sales tax and some exemptions will undoubtedly be made, our case becomes even stronger.

The Comptroller has stated that "the idea has its points, but I can think of several retail sales items more deserving of being given a tax exemption." The only reply we can make is that we cannot think of any more deserving, especially when the Comptroller admits that the revenue from textbook tax is "presumably small."

A letter from Mr. Isaac Ottenheimer (of a Howard Street Book-selling firm) sent to the Sun went a bit farther than this paper in advocating the removal of the tax from all books. "I am pleased that someone is taking it up, as all books should be tax exempt, but the book dealers in our city are lax in taking the matter up. In the State of Illinois, where there is also a 2% Sales Tax, all books are exempt, as some took it up with the State and proved that books and magazines are reading matter, the same as newspapers, and should be exempt ..."

At any rate, the matter is one for the Legislature, which does not convene until January of next year. At present, our only purpose is to sound out public opinion on the matter and carry our campaign to the legislators who can carry the matter to the floor at Annapolis.

Swan Song

This is the present Editor's last issue. It is customary to make a few sobbing remarks on such an occasion. We refuse, but that doesn't mean that our sentiments are any less sincere. We enjoyed every moment of it. Good luck to our successor in the rickety desk and creaky swivel chair and to those who must kowtow to him. It's been nice.

Vets Claim Allowances

Parents of veterans living at home are asked to take notice of the following ruling concerning income tax exemptions:

If the parents contribute to more than half of the veteran's support and if those veterans are not making more than $500.00 per year (this does not include any government allowances—subsistence, tuition payments, etc.), then the parents may include that veteran on their list of dependents regardless of age.

Parents are allowed to subtract $500.00 from their taxable income for the veteran regardless of the wage bracket in which the parents are placed.

The important point in this new ruling is that no age limit has been placed on the veteran. He may be eighteen or twenty-five.

Editor, THE GREYHOUND

Dear Sir,

Here is a suggestion intended to improve school spirit and enable those students without access to cars to get to games away.

A bus, chartered for each of the out of town games, or at least for those within a fifty mile radius, would provide a greater rooting section at such games. It would also be an attempt to advance the current campaign of Loyola spirit rejuvenation.

Other schools provide such a system for their students, who usually pay a nominal fare sufficient to cover the costs of the trip. The trouble is easily worth the effort, for the reasons already stated, and for the enjoyment gotten from such excursions. Most of the games are within easy highway distance, and the cost should be moderate and within the means of any student.

Books

by John Scrimger

A dozen rather colorless short stories by the Irish writer Michael McLaverty have been collected under the title of The Game Cock. An assortment of laudatory remarks from four or five impressive critics would have you believe these stories to be quite literary, or, as the blurb writer on the jacket puts it, stories of "originality and integrity".

It is true that these stories betray an earnestness which is commendable, but that is not enough. McLaverty was content to create a mood. His descriptive passages are high above average, but they occupy a place that plot and action would gladly fill.

Three of the stories come close to a perfect construction. The first, The Road to the Shore is a wry tale of four nuns who go for a drive in the country, and there meet with a mishap which to their secluded lives is catastrophic.

The less successful story, Pigeons, will appeal to the lovers of Ireland. It is a deadly story (in the fashion of Lardner's Haircut) of the Republican underground. With a clever technical trick in the story Look at the Boats, McLaverty, by clearly characterizing the husband and wife, and by withholding the character and personality of the orphaned boy makes the reader identify himself with the boy so as to feel more definitely the tragedy which occurs in the conclusion.

However, admirers of a more vigorous type of short story will, after reading two or three, find the proceedings rather tedious.

City Needs New Arena To Replace Coliseum

by Spence Davidson, Sports Editor

The local sports scribe who is currently engaged in fighting for a new roof to cover the stadium and a new stadium to go under the roof should include a plan by which it could be converted into a basketball arena during the slack season between the Colts and the Orioles. The Coliseum, which is being used in that capacity at the present time, could then be converted into a rest home for persecuted race horses. The architect who designed said edifice as a sports arena should be lashed fifty times and then made to watch a basketball game from behind one of the posts. He'd get some idea of how one-eighth of the crowd witnesses a game. Add to this the fact that the reserved seats rise up so steeply that the first five rows of general admission seats behind them are useless and you have the seating situation in a nutshell.

The floor itself is used for basketball two nights a week and then given over to roller skating. Occasionally they stop the skating long enough to throw chairs and a ring on it for the edification of boxing and wrestling fans. The management is missing a golden opportunity by not filling it with crushed ice on Sunday afternoon and advertising it as the only indoor bobsled run in Baltimore.

The dressing rooms, among other things, leave much to be desired, but why labor the point any further? The whole point of our tirade is simply this: Loyola is working hard to bring big-time collegiate basketball to Baltimore and the University of Baltimore Bees will undoubtedly eventually regain their pre-war status, but if the Coliseum is the only arena available in which to play the games, the whole idea faces a slow death. Baltimore needs, and should fight for, a new coliseum either municipally or privately owned.

Alf Tennyson, the British poet who is responsible for pushing the Light Brigade up and down the Crimean peninsula, once muttered in a moment of frenzy: "The old order changeth, giving place to new, etc., etc." That touching thought holds good for this column; as of next issue we step aside, giving place to a new sports editor. We're not going to make with a lot of oratory that will force you to stop reading long enough to wipe away the tears, but we would like to leave one thought with you. Running with the Hounds is neither one man's job, seasonal, nor confined solely to sports. It's for everyone—students, alumni, parents and friends—and it touches everything that the College does. Thus endeth the lesson. Au bientôt!

Loyola Vs. Seton Hall

Lacy, Johnson Star Despite 68-63 Loss

by Don Fay

Despite a magnificent full-game performance by Jim Lacy, and a last second one-man basket barrage by Bill Johnson, Loyola lost a 68-63 to the Seton Hall Pirates last Friday night before an overflow crowd.

Lacy and Johnson each hit the cords on sensational streaks at different intervals in the game to bring the Hounds back from a seemingly insurmountable leads piled up by the visitors from South Orange, N. J. Lacy hit the webbing for 22 points. Johnson, who scored four of his seven goals in one minute near the close of the game, wound up with 17 points on seven two-pointers and three fouls.

Barry Plays Brilliantly

With their All-America nominee Frank (Pep) Saul and John Macknowski scoring consistently from the outside, the Seton Hall cagers took an early 23-15 lead with ten minutes to go in the first half. Mike Zedalis then cut through for a lay-up, Lacy threw in a long set shot and Bob Barry, who played a brilliant game at center, tossed in his new overhead foul shot to move the count to 23-20.

This three point lead stood for five minutes until Barry hooked one off the pivot to narrow the lead to one point at 31-30.

38-35 Halftime

The period finally closed as Renner, fouled by Johnson, tossed in his shot to make the score 38-35.

Seton took advantage of Loyola's poor shooting early in the second half to manufacture a ten point lead. With twelve minutes to go, and the crowd begging for a comeback that characterized the Hounds' 54-53 upset over the Pirates last year, the Seton Hallers held a 51-42 lead.

It was at this point that Lacy took off on his point making spree that left the crowd breathless. His first shot was his patented hook shot off the left hand driving under the basket. He followed this with two fouls, and added two more hook shots from the left side.

Saul Scores

Saul hit the mark on a set shot from near mid court and the score was 54-48. Barry then took command, hitting the cords on two flips from the floor and a foul. One of his field goals, a beautiful tap-in follow up of one of Lacy's hooks, made the score 62-53 with five minutes remaining.

Macknowski threw in a set shot and two fouls and the Pirates were away to a 13 point 66-53 advantage which appeared impossible to overcome in the short time left.

Johnson Sensational

But Johnson almost did it himself in the next minute. His set shot from far outside went through the cords just as the clock showed 3 minutes to go. After Andy O'Donnell laid one up for a 66-57 score, Johnson banked a one handed pivot shot threw the hoop, then stole the ball and let go a long one hander which pushed the count to 66-61.

He then took a high set shot from near side court, and pandemonium broke out.

With only two minutes left, the Pirates froze the ball to protect their 66-63 lead. The Hounds tried doggedly to intercept, but each time a foul was called, the visitors chose to take it out at mid court and keep possession. Finally, Macknowski cut loose for a layup with 15 seconds left to close the scoring at 68-63.

Lacy, Zedalis High Scorers As Pirates Triumph 60-52

HE GLIDES THROUGH THE AIR—Jim Lacy leaves the floor for his specialty, a left-handed under the basket hook shot against Seton Hall. It was one of nine field goals he inserted in the 60-52 loss.

Seton Hall emerged victorious by a 60-52 count over Loyola in the teams' first meeting of the season before a packed house at South Orange, N. J. The winners rushed to a ten point halftime lead and clung to it in registering their second win in as many starts.

Loyola rallied in the second half, outscoring the Pirates by 34-32, but the Hounds failed to close the gap in the last ten minutes. Their closest margin was at 53-52, after Mike Zedalis dropped in two foul shots. However, the home forces recovered after this, and sparked by John Macknowski and Pep Saul, returned to a comfortable lead quickly.

Lacy Garners 20

Only four Greyhounds—Zedalis, Jim Lacy, Vince Gallagher and Herb Meinert—garnered field goals. Lacy sank nine and added two foul shots to take high scoring honors for the game with 20 points. Zedalis' six two-pointers and three free throws gave him second best among the losers with 15.

Saul and Macknowski were the winners' top men, each coming through constantly with important baskets at crucial moments. Macknowski scored 18 points, while Saul was right behind with 16.

Loyola's Second Loss

The game marked Loyola's second loss of the young season after winning five games, four in a row. Lefty Reitz's hoopsters displayed genuine ability in coming from behind against a major foe.

HANDY ANDY—One of the trickiest ball handlers and passers in the State is Andy O'Donnell, shown here registering a field goal against Seton Hall.

The Line-Up

O'Donnell Floor King

(This is the eighth in a series of articles on outstanding Loyola athletes.)

by Mickey Parr

The old adage of "starting 'em out young" (for a successful venture) has certainly found firm backing with the friends of Andy O'Donnell, stellar starting guard on Loyola's fast-moving basketball quintet.

While most kids were still staying at home, playing with toys and such, Andy began tossing basketballs on outside courts at the tender age of eight.

This early contact with the cage game must have been well used by the lad from Freeland, Pennsylvania, for he now rates as one of the best defensemen in the Mason-Dixon basketball wheel and just about the brainiest floor man in Lefty Reitz's Greyhound ensemble.

In Second Season

This season marks the second campaign in which the Keystone starter has held a regular job on Loyola's team and he reached that spot through sheer consistency of performance.

An unknown from a small town in September of 1946, Andy was used in spot roles through the first several games or so of the 1946-47 season. But he soon forged a path to the starting quint, and, except for a few occasions, hasn't backed out since.

Nor should anyone be misled by the floor working ability of our Pennsylvania speedster. He also has an offensive record which speaks for itself. Last year Andy bowed only to high-scoring Jim Lacy in the matter of Greyhound point making. His 216 markers kept opponents' cords vibrating with a steady swish.

Third In Scoring

At this writing (inclusive of the American U. game) he ranks third in the present campaign with 77 points.

Andy's best shot is a high, arching set from the outside, but he is likewise accomplished in sinking a

Swimming

Dickinson First Victim Of Potent Swimming Team

by Gene Corrigan

PROSPECTS

Following his usual line of super-pessimism, Franny Mueller had foreseen a dark future for the tank team. He had bemoaned a paucity of performers, a fact which would compel those on the team up to competitive calibre to swim in several events. The results—a slow down in final events.

Dugent Lost

This outlook was supported by the loss of Earl Dugent, a very promising newcomer. Earl was beached for the year with sinus, after having gradually improved his times to equal any on the squad.

However, since the satisfactory performance by this group in the Dickinson meet, the time has come for a fresh estimate. The fifteen man squad is admittedly short four men; a freestyle relay unit would balance the roster perfectly. Otherwise, from the coach to manager Jack Downey, the team faces the New Year confidently.

Team Swims Well

On performance in the Dickinson meet, Burt Dunn, Andy McCormick, Bill Klarner and Jack Blondell are due special mention. Dunn swam anchor in both the medley and the freestyle relays, and provided the final spurt necessary to win both. Klarner closed up a large gap in the medley and led Clint Bamberger and the D-son entries home in the 200 yard breaststroke; this event was the one which put the meet in the bag for the Greyhounds.

McCormick and Blondell followed John Whitmore closely while he was breaking school records in the 440, and Blondell did the same in the 220. Andy McCormick provided a very welcome third place point when he finished his initial competitive 440.

DICKINSON

Although it lost four of nine events, the Loyola Swimming team easily beat Dickinson 45-30. One opponent broke two school records in the distance events in the match.

The meet, held at Dickinson (in Carlisle, Pa., on Saturday, January 10) saw generally fast times entered on the records. The Greyhound group took alternate contests from the first to the last, losing in the main to Whitmore and the stellar D-son diver, Gene Beck.

Leading off, the Medley entry of Tom Maskell, Bill Klarner, and Burt Dunn won the first five points for Evergreen in 3:30:06. Then came Whitmore in the 220, and a new pool record of 2:22; Blondell and McCrystle, Loyola, followed in second and third place. Jim Fisher next won the 50 yard sprint; Veder and Howell, Dickinson finished in that order.

Low Ceiling A Difficulty

The dive was taken by Beck with 154 points. He had over twenty points rated for five of his dives, with one given twenty-five points. John Mohler was second for Loyola with 128 points; Garvin of D-son was third, and Gunning, Greyhounds, fourth. A low ceiling, which Gunning hit twice, hampered the visitors.

Then Dickinson came within two points by winning the 150 yard backstroke; John Hopkins first in 1:57, Seabodt second, and Tom Maskell, Loyola, third. Score: L. :26; D. :24. Bill Klarner and Clint Bamberger for Loyola, and Miller, Dickinson, finished in that order in the breaststroke 200 yard race. Whitmore returned, and Blondell finished second, McCormick third in the 440. The Loyola freestyle relay composed of Jim Oaster, Jim Fisher, Burt Dunn, and Jack Blondell, won to total the final score at 45-30.

Coming Up

Hopkins, Texas Wesleyan Face Hounds In Next Two Weeks

Six major basketball opponents vie with the Greyhounds within the next two weeks, offering Lefty Reitz's crew one of their busiest periods of the season. Three Mason-Dixon Conference teams and a trio of non-league rivals comprise the sextet of foes.

Johns Hopkins, which upset Loyola last year by 46-32 at Homewood, is set for a carbon copy performance when the Hounds invade the Jays' gym tonight. The Howdy Meyers' quint, essentially the same as the group which won the 1947 contest, has rallied after a poor start this season and is primed for another all-out effort to upset the Green and Gray. George Mitchell, 6'5" center, is the Jays' chief sharpshooter, but he will not see action tonight due to illness.

Scranton, Villanova Here

Two Pennsylvania outfits will visit Evergreen next week. Scranton University, victim by 46-42 earlier this year, makes its Baltimore debut of 1948 this Sunday afternoon. Villanova College, Reitz's alma mater, is the opponent next Friday night. Western Maryland College, a powerful Mason-Dixon squad, moves in next Saturday evening.

The scene will shift to the Coliseum on January 29, when Texas Wesleyan College, on a hardwood safari that will cover nearly ten colleges in the east, plays the Hounds in the teams' second meeting. Loyola aims to change that 60-59 score which was registered on the scoreboard at the close of the contest a year ago. Cliff McNeely, the country's leading collegiate scorer last year with well over 700 points, has turned pro and consequently will not be with the Texans. McNeely was held to seven points in the game last year while Jim Lacy, second in the national standings, scored 20.

Hounds Meet Washington

On January 31, the team travels to Chestertown, Md., to engage Washington College. Always a tough team to beat on its home court, the Sho'men loom a difficult obstacle for the Reitzmen to pass.

Basketball Intramurals Begin; Ping Pong Slated After Exams

Basketball Intra-murals are well under way. Under the direction of Franny Mueller's Intra-mural division of the A. A., the leagues are set up in the same pattern of the recently closed football eliminations.

Another point of similarity is that the eventual champs will meet the best Johns Hopkins has to offer. If the parallel continues further, they will beat them handily.

Student teams are playing in the gym under a four league, five team a league arrangement. One league is reserved for club teams. They play on a limited time arrangement, necessitated by Varsity and J. V. use of the court, which makes scheduling more difficult than ever.

Chilton Rompers Win

The first result ready for publication is that of Keystoneers vs. Chilton Rompers match, won by the latter. As the Keystoneers were runners up last year, this makes the Chilton Rompers strong potential opponents.

The latest addition to the rapidly expanding Intra-mural scope is the recently announced Ping Pong tournament. The matches will be held under the same rules as the recent Tennis eliminations, and with the same priority system. The school will supply all equipment.

Cagers Defeat Albright 62-53

In command all the way after a 19-19 first quarter deadlock, Loyola grabbed a 62-53 decision from Albright College's Lions in the first home game of 1948 on January 3.

Both teams hit the cords consistently in the initial period, with the visitors from Reading, Pa., being especially deadly on set shots. Howie Guldin, lanky forward for the Lions, dropped in eight of his twelve points in this streak.

Loyola Pulls Away

Jim Lacy, Mike Zedalis and Andy O'Donnell inserted field goals at the start of the second period, and the Greyhounds were off to a 31-21 lead midway of this stanza. The losers rallied slightly, however, and with five seconds to go in the quarter, slimmed the margin to 30-32. Lacy then drove through the center, tossed in his patented hook shot, converted his foul shot and walked to the dressing room as the scoreboard flashed a 35-30 score.

The Hounds scored three quick baskets after intermission and strengthened their lead considerably, but the Albright squad continued to be pesky and managed to narrow the lead to the final nine point margin although behind at intervals by ten to fifteen points.

O'Donnell Outstanding

The reliable pair of Lacy, with 18, and Zedalis, with 15, again were tops in scoring. O'Donnell, his usual excellent floor game and defensive work in evidence, turned in a great job and seven points.

Tom Gisriel did a creditable job in watching Ossie Kriebel, 6'7" center, and scored eight points himself to aid the winning cause. Bill Johnson weighed in with seven.

In the preliminary game, the B Squad beat the Junior College, 46-27.

driving layup. He at times precedes the latter with a crafty fake, which he engineers after he has leaped into the air.

The Freeland shotmaker is 22 years old and though not exceptionally tall, his 6'1" and 175 pounds are solid matter which takes no guff from opposing huskies.

Coaching In View

With another year of play due him before graduating from Loyola, O'Donnell has definite visions of a future coaching career when his active days come to a close. Strangely enough, he hopes to make his start right here in Maryland rather than in his native Pennsylvania area.

His background has capably fitted him for such a venture, and is lacking in no respect. Starting in organized competition in a Freeland Y. M. C. A. league when he was only ten years old, Andy has kept his hand in the game constantly.

Four years as a first string varsity competitor for St. Ann's High School in Freeland ended in a blaze of honors. In his senior year he was selected to the area's All-Regional quintet, which takes 30 teams into consideration. He was captain of the St. Ann's team, and their leading scorer. Moreover, he was nosed out for the league leadership by a single point.

In Service 22 Months

The combined scoring efficiency of O'Donnell and a teammate earned them a nickname in the press as the "field goal twins."

Andy spent 22 months in the European Theatre of Operations, and in between combat duties captained his outfit to the championship of the 79th Infantry Division League.

On his return to civilian life, the Loyola crackerjack went through a highly successful 1945-46 campaign with the Freeland Y. M. C. A. team, combining then as now, with another Loyola standout, Mike Zedalis.

Hounds Defeat American U., Take League Lead

Zedalis, Gallagher Lead Scorers In 64-55 Victory

Undismayed by the Eagles highly-touted two team defense and attack, the Greyhound basketball team defeated American University on January 5 by a 64-55 score for their third league victory and undisputed leadership of the M-D Conference.

The Hounds held a slim lead through most of the game, leaving the floor at halftime with a 27-22 lead over the home team. Four minutes after the second period began, however, Bob Lamon sank a field goal to tie the score at 28-28.

Even Fight

For the next ten minutes the two quintets thrilled a packed house as they matched baskets, with neither team able to secure a substantial lead. Gisriel, Gallagher and Zedalis kept the Greyhounds in the game, while Hillock and Crockett did most of the Eagles' scoring during this time.

Jim Lacy raced in to lay up a two-pointer, giving Loyola a 40-38 margin, and the Hounds were never headed again. Coach Staff Cassell made the mistake of sending in his zone defense to stop the Hounds and Loyola went to town. Vince Gallagher, who totalled 14 points for the evening, led the Greyhound attack, personally tallying seven points in three minutes.

Hounds Ahead

With five minutes playing time remaining, Cassell frantically pulled out the zone and sent in his first team, but the damage was done. Loyola held a 49-41 margin and was never seriously threatened again.

Despite the desperation shots of Negley, Hillock and Crockett, Loyola held tight and kept a ten point difference in the score. They succeeded in breaking up every scoring attempt each time the Eagles elected to take the ball out of bounds instead of shooting a foul. The Hounds never even bothered to freeze the ball, electing to continue running up a score against the befuddled Eagles.

Zedalis High

Mike Zedalis, celebrating his twenty-first birthday, led the scoring column with 22. Mike sank eight field goals and six of eight fouls, and was responsible for securing most of the rebounds. Gallagher had 14 and Lacy tallied nine. Jim's points were made on spectacular shots such as he made last year time after time.

Crockett, a Baltimore boy, led the Eagles with 13 and Don Hillock made 11. The Washington five practically lost the game on fouls, registering only 13 out of 25, while the Hounds successfully dropped in 18 in 26 attempts. No one left the game on fouls.

Cassell Comments

Staff Cassell, A. U. coach, had this to say following his team's loss to Loyola. "I'm not making any alibis, Loyola played better ball tonight, and undoubtedly they were a little more on edge than we were, but I think that was because they kept in just a little better condition by having more games."

Greyhounds Nip Scranton, 46-42

Lefty Reitz's basketballers made it three straight over Scranton University during the holidays, defeating the Tommies by 46-42 on their home floor at Scranton, Pa.

Last season, the Greyhounds took two ten-point decisions over the Pennsylvanians by scores of 52-42 and 59-49.

Jim Lacy had three personal fouls called on him early in the tilt, and finally fouled out late in the second half. He was held to four points, his lowest total of the year to date.

Johnson, Zedalis Lead

Bill Johnson, the team's outstanding defensive man, tied Mike Zedalis for high honors with nine points. Andy O'Donnell collected eight and Vince Gallagher, number one sub, made seven. The latter's three field goals were made from difficult angles from the floor.

The Hounds had no match for the losers' Mike DeNoia, who threw in 18 markers to lead the point parade. The Scranton sharpshooter made six shots from the floor and an equal number from the foul line.

Come From Behind

Behind by one point, 23-22, at the half, the Green and Gray forces played on even terms with the home squad until the 30-30 mark. From here on in, Loyola held the lead, although it was seldom over three points.

Paxton With 17 Paces Tarheels To 64-47 Win

Sparked by their All-America candidate Bob Paxton, whose 17 points were tops for the evening, the University of North Carolina cagers ended 1947 with a bevy of baskets that netted them a 64-47 victory over the Greyhounds on New Year's Eve at the Coliseum.

Paxton, specializing on a fancy Western style one-hand push shot from the corner, and proving deadly from the foul line, sent the Tarheels ahead early, and along with Nemo Nearman, towering center, controlled most of the rebounds off both backboards.

Nearman, at 6'6" the tallest cager on the floor, threw in 12 points off the pivot and four more from the foul line for 16 points.

Loyola Off

Loyola suffered one of its poorest shooting games to date. The team missed its first four foul shots, an indication that it was off. Jim Lacy finally sank a free shot for Loyola's first point after the Carolinians had six markers. Andy O'Donnell then connected from far outside with a set shot and a 6-3 score. This three point margin was the closest the Hounds came, as the winners pulled away to a 34-22 halftime lead and remained on top throughout the second half.

O'Donnell and Mike Zedalis, the only Loyola players who garnered more than one field goal, each scored 15 points. O'Donnell flipped in three set shots and a pair of underhanders in close for his five field goals, while Zedalis' six two-pointers included two tap-ins, two set shots from the corner and two layups.

Lacy Bottled Up

Lacy took but five shots in the game, converting once on a driving left handed under the basket flip. He added four tosses from the foul line for six points.

DON'T CRY, WISH! Pounding his fist on the floor after missing an attempt to grab the ball in a loose scramble, Wish Galvin (20) watches an unidentified American U. cager do calisthenics as the ball flies by. Bob Barry and two Eagles are rising after hitting the floor like dominoes. Andy O'Donnell (12) and Jim Lacy (16) are poised for action in the background. No. 8 is the Eagles' Fred Fling, No. 12 LeRoy Ishman.

Mueller Sets Intramural Pin Tournament For January 27

by Bill Kneavel

According to Frauny Mueller, Intramural Athletic Director, the first annual Bowling Tournament will be held this year. Mueller plans to hold the tourney, which is open to all students, at the Guilford Bowling Alleys situated in the 4200 block York Road. Action will begin on January 27, and entries must be in by that time.

Following the pattern of the Evening Sun tournament, elimination will be based on straight total score. Each bowler will be permitted to roll three games per week.

Elimination Tourney

Those not eliminated after the first week's games will continue during the following week. This elimination will be in effect until the final round when the winner will be declared.

Several trophies will be awarded to the winners of the final round. These will be displayed in the bookstore during the weeks of the tournament.

Slip Necessary

Payment for the games must be made at the Athletic Office, and a slip will be issued. This slip must be presented at the alleys in order to receive credit for a score.

Mueller has announced that the alleys will be open on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday after twelve o'clock during the week.

Library To Dell Walks Planned

A Campus Improvement Committee to consider a system of walks from the Library to the Dell Building, the installation of bells in the Faculty House class room and other problems regarding campus buildings and grounds, was named at the last meeting of the Student Council.

Thomas Gisriel, president of the Athletic Association, was appointed chairman. Paul Feeley, president of the May Senior Class and George Uchuck, president of the May Sophomore Class, are the other members of the committee. It was brought out in the meeting that the lawn in front of Faculty House is being ruined by students going from the Library to the Dell Building because of the absence of any pavement directly connecting the two buildings.

The Office of the Dean of Men has had the problem under consideration for some time and work on a pathway is definitely scheduled to begin in the near future. The committee will recommend the position of the walks.

Open Meeting Set For Today

The third open meeting of the Student Council will be held this morning at 11:30 in the Gymnasium. Regular Council business will be transacted and the entire student body is invited to attend.

For the sake of brevity, reading of the minutes of the last meeting will be dispensed with and activity reports will be limited to a minimum. The gymnasium public address system will not be employed since it is believed greater clarity will be obtained without the use of the multiple microphones employed in past open meetings.

The first regular meeting of the Council of the new year was held last Thursday afternoon in Faculty House.

The play will be directed by Daniel Mackey, and will star James Dietz, Donald Fay, Andrew Montgomery, Gene Corrigan, Rodge Kines, and Emerson Clarke.

My Song Is For Tomorrow is the author's comment on ignorance and intolerance in the South. There are several scenes in the play, but the curtain remains open during all the changes of scenery, since all these changes are simply focuses on different parts of the dominant scene.

Library Plans Hobby, Service Book Displays

Two new displays will be presented by the Loyola Library beginning next week. According to Miss Rose, assistant Librarian, a display of student hobbies will be sponsored by the Library staff. Each hobby will be given two weeks and the series of displays will last until student hobbies are exhausted. A second project includes the collection and display of division and company books of campus veterans, to be loaned on a voluntary basis to the library.

"The hobby project includes any vocations students might have, however out-of-the-way," Miss Rose said, "provided they are suitable for display in the glass cases in front of the library."

The service books will be made available to the students on a special table set aside for the display.
